Budget won't help salaries

By CRAIG EDWARDS
Administration editor

While students at Eastern and other Illinois universities can be almost certain of no tuition increases next year, faculty and staff may not get the 10 percent salary hike they want.

Although the Illinois Board of Higher Education included salary hikes of 10 percent in its fiscal year 1990 budget requests, Gov. James R. Thompson only included enough money for salary increases of "up to four percent" in his $1.5 billion higher education budget.

Thompson presented his $21.8 billion state budget, which includes a $115 million increase for higher education, to the General Assembly Wednesday.

Richard Wagner, IBHE executive director, is pleased that the governor's budget will provide a substantial increase for higher education. "But, I must point out that this increase averages only 3.4 percent per year over three years," Wagner said, which is less than an annual inflation rate of about 4.5 percent.

"In a normal year, this would be a very good budget. But after two very difficult years, we could've used more," said Ross Hodel, IBHE deputy director. The IBHE had requested $2.9 billion for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

"If the legislature approves the governor's proposed budget, no tuition increases will be necessary," Hodel said Thursday. He said the IBHE will meet Tuesday to make reallocations based on Thompson's budget. "Faculty salaries is definitely one area we will have to make cuts in," Hodel said.

He said the IBHE had hoped to provide a five percent cost-of-living increase and an additional five percent increase to "gain ground and catch up with other states."

"We'll still be able to provide a good cost-of-living increase, but unfortunately we'll still be behind other states when it comes to faculty salaries," Hodel added.

And that's a fact that worries Mitch Vogel, president of the University Professionals of Illinois Local 4100. Vogel said although university professors don't expect to be wealthy, they are getting tired of making sacrifices.

"Most professors are going to take this as another insult and not just a lack of money," Vogel said from his Chicago office Thursday.

EISCCAP protests dump site

By MIKE YOUNG
Staff writer

Eastern Illinois Students and Community Concerned About Peace (EISCCAP) has focused its efforts south of Charleston and joined a group protesting the construction of a low-level radiation waste dump site in Martinsville.

EISCCAP has donated to and continues support of a Martinsville-based group Concerned Citizens Against the Dump, EISCCAP President Ron Keller said.

Concerned Citizens was formed in January, 1988 to inform the public of the negative aspects of having the proposed low-level radiation waste dump built in Martinsville, which is about 30 miles south of Charleston.

Keller said EISCCAP is educating themselves about the situation. "We send different people (EISCCAP members) to the Martinsville town meetings and we read everything we can get our hands on."

The monthly meetings feature one speaker from the Illinois Department of Nuclear Safety (IDNS) and one from Concerned Citizens, and a chance for those attending to ask questions.

Keller also said EISCCAP has sent members to meet with Bill Wieck, the head of Concerned Citizens.

"We're following the lead of Concerned Citizens. They're the ones running the show," Keller said.

EISCCAP wants to stress how important it is that Eastern be concerned about having a low-level radiation waste dump site so close to home.

"The dump can and will affect us almost as much as it will affect those in Martinsville," EISCCAP treasurer Harlan Aldort said.

Keller said there are many transportation possibilities close-by and some of the waste is bound to travel through Coles County, Illinois Route 16, Illinois Route 130 and Interstate 57 all run through Coles County.

"We really don't have the facilities to deal with an accident," Keller said. "There has been no experience with that around here."

Keller said EISCCAP wants to talk to the Charleston mayor and city council and the Coles County board about making the county a nuclear-free zone.

We would like for it to be illegal for waste to be in the county if it is not produced here, Keller said.

Blood drive misses goal by just 167 pints

By TONY CAMPBELL
Staff writer

Eastern's blood drive missed the goal of 1,600 pints by 167 as the drive concluded Thursday.

The number of donors Thursday was 433, which was up compared to Wednesday's total of 298, but the last minute surge still wasn't enough to meet the goal.

Red Cross workers saw 492 people come in to donate, however, 59 were deferred for various reasons; bringing the final total to 1,433.

Steve Richards, chair of the blood drive, said the large number of donors in the first two days and the rapid decline on Wednesday was an unusual development. "Usually the drives start off slow and build," Richards added.

Vickie Rumohr, Red Cross blood service consultant, said she doesn't know why the goal wasn't met. "It's hard to put your finger on, but I'm still very happy with the turnout today."

"It's strange because spring is traditionally a better time than fall," Rumohr said. Last year's spring blood drive had 1,689 pints collected, and the goal was 1,550; while Eastern's fall blood drive fell short of the 1,550 goal by 57 pints.

Rumohr said she was pleased, though, because the number of first-time donors was up. There were 276 first-time donors for the spring blood drive. "We couldn't have done anything without the students help. They've been great."

Nancy Lederer, Red Cross collection supervisor, said a jump in the number of donors is typical on the last day of a drive because the people that were nervous decide to come in or are talked into giving. "There is always more reaction from the people on the last day."

EPA sues brewery

BELLEVILLE — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is suing a Wisconsin brewing company, charging its operation there polluted city sewers, but brewery officials said Thursday they will defend the charges vigorously.

The lawsuit says G. Heileman Brewing Co.'s Stag Brewery, which operated there until August, discharged wastes without adequate treatment into Belleville's wastewater system for nine years.

LaCrosse, Wis.-based Heileman faces up to $37 million in fines if found guilty, said Anne Weinert, an EPA environmental engineer.

But Randy Smith, Heileman's vice-president and general counsel, said the brewery never released unauthorized or dangerous wastes and contracted with the city to have its wastewater treated through a municipally owned treatment plant.

Smith said the city's treatment plant, not the brewery, was responsible for the release of the wastes.

"Nothing alleged in the complaint indicates Heileman was polluting the city water. It was strictly a municipally owned treatment plant," he said in Wisconsin.

"It's really a situation where you have the EPA coming in 1989 in a matter they say may have been a problem as early as 1982. Well, where was the EPA then?" Smith said.

Missing officer baffles Army

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — The U.S. Army said Thursday it is baffled by the disappearance of a "good, clean-cut" American soldier who had access to classified information and vanished near the East Germany border.

An Army spokesman, Lt. Col. Jake Dye, said there was not enough information to say if Spec. 4 Michael A. Peri had defected. Dye acknowledged a portable computer was missing from an intelligence office where Peri worked.

Peri, of Laguna Niguel, Calif., has been listed as "absent without leave" since he failed to show up for work Feb. 21 at the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment in Fulda, 65 miles northeast of Frankfurt.

Two days later, officials searching for Peri found his U.S. Army vehicle undamaged near the border town of Obersuhl, about 35 miles northeast of Fulda.

"Peri was authorized to drive the vehicle and had logged it out properly," Dye said.

Stars and Stripes, the Army's unofficial newspaper, quoted Dye as saying "the circumstances of that vehicle being found so close to the border are definitely suspicious."

Dye told the Associated Press later the newspaper was putting it "a little too strongly," but he didn't deny making the statement.

Peri worked as an electronic warfare signal specialist and was responsible for operating equipment that identifies and locates non-communication signals, such as radar.

Jackson backs proposal to save S&Ls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jesse Jackson, blaming "buccaneer bankers" for the savings and loan crisis, backed a liberal coalition's proposal Thursday to require institutions to commit money for low and moderate income housing as a concession for an S&L bailout.

The plan also would include an increase in the top federal income tax rate and fees charged to financial institutions to pay for the multi-billion dollar shoring up of the savings and loan industry.

"We applaud President Bush for addressing the crisis rather than simply ignoring it as his predecessor did," Jackson said. "But we believe his plan to bail out buccaneer bankers is not adequate."

Jackson's Rainbow Coalition organization was one of about 100 groups, including unions, citizens' groups, churches and political groups who are supporting an effort called the Financial Democracy Campaign to promote an alternative to the administration's plan.

The coalition's plan would establish a national housing finance administration, financed by banks, savings and loans and other financial institutions, providing below market interest rates on loans to first-time homebuyers and to developers of low and moderate income housing.

The plan would pay for the bailout of the troubled-thrift industry through contributions assessed on the financial industry including on money market funds

Full-time taxi now serves Charleston

By CATHY PODWOJSKI

City editor

Taxi service, an inherent part of most cities, has made its way to Charleston to service the local residents and students.

Checker Top Cab, based out of Mattoon, now provides a full-time taxi located in Charleston to serve Charleston residents and Eastern students more efficiently, said Bill Wright, the owner of Checker Top Cab.

"The driver is in the cab in Charleston most of the time," Wright said. "It's a matter of instant service for us to be there for anyone who needs us."

The service, which began Feb. 20, received no requests the first day, but Wright said about 10 calls per day are now handled by the Charleston cab.

Checker Top Cab will take customers anywhere in town for a flat rate of $3.50 between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. and $4 from 5 p.m.

until 6 p.m. during the week and on Friday and Saturday, Wright said. On weekends, the service is available in Charleston until midnight.

Wright said he anticipates a good deal of weekend business from Charleston because of the university.

"I was advised students would use this kind of service on the weekends," Wright said. "It's an intelligent thing for students to use this kind of service rather than get a DUI or something."

Much of Wright's business is within the Charleston/Mattoon area, but Wright said his drivers will go wherever the customer wants them to. He added that service to the bus or Amtrak station is very popular with students.

Checker Top implemented service within Charleston to expand business and to meet market demands. Residents can now call a Charleston phone number, 348-5454, to get in touch with Checker Top Cab.

"Making local runs within Charleston from Mattoon cost too much money for the customer and we lost money, too," Wright said.

With four cabs, a van and six full-time drivers, Wright said he is prepared to meet the demand in whatever market is open in a positive way.

"It's our goal to answer all of the calls within 15 minutes," Wright said. "Since we're the only cab service, it's a matter of Eastern's Sociology Club is holding a food drive starting at 4 p.m. Friday in the basement of Ike's Little Campus, 407 E. Lincoln Ave., to help Charleston's needy.

Club members are asking students, faculty and Charleston residents to donate "two cans of food or a $2 donation," which will go to the Charleston Food Pantry, said senior Linda Hunter, the Sociology Club co-president.

"Everybody's real excited about it," Hunter said. "It's a place to start at least," in helping the less fortunate in our community, she added.

The food drive will be held now because it's right before Easter, she said, and people may be more inclined to help out now at this time of year. Although the Sociology Club only has between 10 to 20 regular members, about 60 people may help with the food drive, Hunter said.

Anyone who is unable to take food to Ike's Little Campus Friday may leave donations in the Sociology Department in Coleman Hall room 334, Hunter said.

In addition to the food drive, the Sociology Club holds other activities for its members to promote awareness of social problems.

The club tries to have guest speakers every semester with topics including drug abuse, domestic violence and child abuse, Hunter said.

"People in the college community need to be made more aware that there are people in the world less fortunate than they are," Hunter said.

Expo offers workshops for teenagers

By LORI HIGGINS

Staff writer

The Fourth Annual Women's Expo and Health Fair scheduled for Saturday will offer a new section specifically devoted to teenagers.

Sandy Rives, coordinator of the Expo, said the demand for the teen division was great. "Last spring, after the last Expo, I had some rural mothers ask if I would do this."

The teen division of the Expo will be entirely separate from the women's section, Rives said, adding they are doing some "fun things" for teens.

The Women's Expo, which is one of the biggest events for women in East Central Illinois, is held every year as an outreach program for women, Rives said, adding the Expo is for women of all ages.

A total of 40 speakers will present the 19 workshops offered in the Expo.

Rives said that the workshops

See related story in Verge, page 3B

offer a wide range of topics including getting a business started, time management and nutrition questions.

The most popular issues which are discussed in workshops are learning how to manage time and dealing with guilt, Rives said.

A supplement to the Expo will be the 1989 Women's Financial Concerns Manual, said Rives. Rives said the manual is basically a reference and informational guide for women. It contains sections on personal finance, careers and business, financial planning and women in the workplace.

The teen portion is divided into three major sections. Rives said the first section will deal with getting along. "We will talk about emotions and relationships."

Kevin Cannon, assistant director of the Housing Office, will give a presentation to teenagers. He will speak on laughter as a form of stress release, Rives said.

Teens can attend workshops focusing on leaving home and going away to college. Rives said they will focus on the fact that there is "a lot more to college than picking it out of a catalog."

A discussion for teens who decide not to attend college will also be offered. They will talk about going out on your own and setting up your own apartment, Rives said.

The third section in the teen division will address looking and feeling good, Rives said, adding they will emphasize that how you feel inside is how you think you look outside.

The registration fee for the Expo is $10 per person.

Although it is still possible for people to walk in, Rives said "it really helps us tremendously if they're pre-registered."

The Expo will begin with registration in Doudna Fine Arts Center at 6:45 a.m. to 8:15 a.m. Most of the workshops will be held in the Martin Luther King University Union as well as McAfee Gym and the Fine Arts Building.

Rives said she expects a good crowd to attend the Expo. "We have 200 teens registered right now," said Rives, adding there are 1,150 to 1,200 women registered.

"We have virtually doubled in attendance since we started," Rives said. The first year the Expo was held, there was a total of 726 women who attended.

Rives said that she has received a tremendous amount of help from volunteers and sponsors. "We've had a whole lot of super contributors," said Rives,

Basketball teams need support in crucial contests

Eastern's basketball teams need some help this weekend. Your's.

The Lady Panthers host Indiana State Friday for the final spot in the Gateway Conference tournament. Saturday, the Panthers host Wisconsin-Green Bay for the third seed in the Association of Mid-Continent Universities conference tournament.

It's fortunate that Eastern has the opportunity to host these crucial games on the last weekend of the regular season, but you can magnify that home court advantage by making your presence felt in these, the final home games for each team.

The men's team is already in its conference tournament, so it will be playing only for a position in the tourney. But the women's team is in a true do-or-die situation.

The Lady Panthers have struggled in their defense of last season's Gateway Conference tournament title. But with star guard Barb Perkes back in the lineup, Eastern beat league-leading Illinois State Wednesday night.

Meanwhile, support for the men's team must be used in a more orderly fashion. The energy that brought a barrage of cups and papers during Monday night's game needs to be channeled into some vocal support, which could be most instrumental in a Panthers' win.

Saturday is also the last chance Eastern fans will have to see Panthers guard Jay Taylor play at home.

Even Eastern students who aren't basketball fans should take notice of Taylor's performances at Eastern during the last four years. Taylor's triumphs at Eastern have given him a good chance at playing in the National Basketball Association next year. It's not often that an Eastern student is given the opportunity to ply his trade at the highest level of his profession.

For these reasons and another inherent one - school spirit - we urge that you attend the games Friday and Saturday nights. Moreover, make your voice heard.

Quote of the day...

"There are only two forces in the world, the sword and the spirit. In the long run the sword will always be conquered by the spirit."

Cord isn't all that he's cracked up to be

I had a brush with greatness this week. But, to be honest, it wasn't that great.

The anticipation had been building up for more than a week. John Loprieno a.k.a. Cord Roberts was coming to Eastern. Wow... be still my heart.

Now, I'll admit I sat through the entire Buchanan City ordeal and watched the "One Life to Live" cast act stupid in the year 1888. I also waited patiently for their escape from Eterna - the underground city. But my interest in the soap opera doesn't necessarily mean I think Cord is hot.

Let's face it. The man is kind of goofy looking. He has buck teeth and he talks funny. - A man who regularly says things like, "Lord, girl what could you be thinkin'!" is not exactly my idea of a super guy.

But, that is neither here nor there. I, along with many other women on this campus, was still a little intrigued by the thought of walking in the Union Grand Ballroom and seeing someone I watch regularly on TV. So I went.

There he was. Cord, sitting in a plain white shirt, jeans and cowboy boots with some weird-looking bag strapped around his waist. He looked just like he does on TV - only he was closer. The thrill was gone. He was boring. He was just any other guy, only he was getting paid $3,400 to sit in a chair and watch girls like me stare at him. Gee, what a tough job.

Seeing a colleague of mine, I wandered over to see what I had missed. "More of the same," she said. "He answered a few questions and he's just been sitting here signing autographs." Hmmm, I thought. This is pretty lame.

Utterly bored with the whole thing up until this point, I decided to wander up to Cord himself and shoot the breeze. There were only two girls in line so my wait was a short one.

OK, get ready, here's the really intense part. There is nothing between Cord and I except a tiny table with some pictures and pens on it. Now is my chance to really see what he's like off the set. Gosh, maybe this is something I'll want to tell my grandchildren.

"What's your name?"

"What," I say. - "Are you talking to me?" It's Cord. He's already signed John Loprieno on his picture and now he's asking me my name. "Amy," I say timidly.

And amazingly my name appears on the picture just like I said it, "Amy." Not "To Amy" or "Lord, girl, just 'Amy John Loprieno,'" like I've changed my last name.

Totally disappointed, I whirl around to see if other were let down as well. Hardly.

The short line now stretched to the end of the ballroom, and members of the University Board were shouting over the PA system to love-struck girls asking them to form two lines.

This was easier said than done. People started pushing and shoving and arguing about who was in line first and who was going to get to say their names to Cord first. "Betty, I want to say Betty!" one girl argued.

"He hates that name! My name is Tina, Tina write pleaseee!" came another shout.

Things were looking up.

I spotted another friend of mine in the audience and attempted to fight my way through the crowd and share this moment with someone else. My mistake was stopping in the middle of the "Cord Line" to say hi.

I had only started to make jokes about how silly was for the entire female population to pack themselves like sardines into the Union to see a soap star when low and behold one of the sex-starved girls spun me around and said, "What do you think you are doing?"

"Excuse me," I asked.

"You cut in line," is what she said, but the look on her face said, "Move or I'll kick you so hard you wind up in 1888!"

Realizing my fatal flaw, I apologized and moved. I had had enough greatness for one day.

Dashti should understand free press

Dear editor;

I feel that I must respond to Mr. Dashti's recent attack on freedom of the press. Mr. Dashti would have us ban "The Satanic Verses" because several passages in the book constitute "propaganda against Islam;" that is, they contain remarks that are insulting to Moslems because they are "against Moslem belief."

I will defer entirely to Mr. Dashti's understanding of Islamic law and the extent to which there is free speech in Moslem nations, but I cannot accept his understanding of what free speech and freedom of the press mean in this country. We guarantee the rights of free speech and freedom of the press not because we believe that everything that anyone says is true, accurate or fair, but because we believe that the government has no business telling us what we can and cannot read. We believe that people have a right to express their ideas. Some of these views (perhaps most of them) will be either false, misleading or offensive to some person or group, but how are we to recognize what is false or slanted if we have access only to those ideas that some group decides are true, inoffensive and worth knowing?

Guaranteeing these rights, however, means guaranteeing them for everyone, no matter how inaccurate or offensive we may find their views. Freedom to express only those ideas that are inoffensive is no freedom at all. Which ideas are offensive? And offensive to whom? Mr. Dashti says that "we should not let any individual have any religion or belief." By this standard, no speech is protected, every idea or opinion is antithetical to some possible or actual belief.

"The Satanic Verses" may well contain material that is offensive to Moslems and that inaccurately portrays Moslem beliefs. But rather than demanding that the book be banned, Mr. Dashti should have used the opportunity to explain to us why the material is so offensive. Had he done this, he would have contributed far more towards helping us understand Islamic theology than he could ever have hoped to accomplish by actually banning the book.

CAA approves robotics class

By LORI LESNIAK
Staff writer

An introduction to robotics course dealing with the actual lab use of robotic equipment was approved Wednesday by the Council on Academic Affairs.

The course will be open to all majors and is accepted as a general education requirement. A second course in robotics, robots and control systems, was added as an upper level course. Both courses will be offered by the technology education department in the College of Applied Sciences.

The CAA also approved a course in jazz history which was proposed by the music department. The course will be open only to music majors and minors.

AB questions need for Crazy Daze

In light of mediocre attendance to the University Board's Crazy Daze events, the Apportionment Board suggested Thursday canceling the event altogether.

Crazy Daze coordinator Star Taylor presented her committee's budget, which included increases for performers and programs, at the AB meeting.

Crazy Daze is a one to two-day event to give students a break from the mid-winter blahs, Taylor said.

This year featured soap star John Loprieno, "Cord" from One Life to Live.

About 500 to 600 people attended the event, which Taylor said was initially supposed to be a series of events, but because of scheduling conflicts, fell through.

As an alternative to canceling the event, AB members suggested charging a small admission fee to bring in revenue for the committee and reduce the amount of student fees which the committee requires.

Nine University Board members recently attended the "Touch the Future Conference" to gather ideas for future entertainment at Eastern.

The purpose of attending the conference, held in Nashville, Tenn., was so UB could have a chance to view a large number of acts, "talk to the performers and their agents and check out their price ranges," UB vice-chair Star Taylor said.

Melissa Boehm, UB chair, said that no performers will be signed to perform at Eastern until UB's budget is passed.

However, the band Rhythm Corp and the play "Greater Tuna" are prospects, Boehm said.

At the conference, lecturers, bands and comedians performed for members of various college and university programming boards from across the nation.

Some bands that performed at the conference included Inn-O-Vation, London USA, Rhythm Corp and The All-Night News Boys, Boehm said.

Comedians who demonstrated their talent at the conference included Paula Poundstone and Emo Philips.

Staff writer

A motorcycle owned by Junior Brian Kay was stolen from the parking lot behind Lincoln, Stevenson and Douglas halls sometime after 1:45 a.m. Sunday. According to the police report,

Crimestoppers

Kay was in his girlfriend's room. At about 1:45 a.m. he saw what he thought was a shadow beside his motorcycle, but he was not sure of what he saw. Kay told police the motorcycle was locked.

Other reports include:

Vandalism:

• Someone threw a parking

barricade through the window of a parked car owned by David Dutler, recreation sports director, after 1 a.m. Sunday in the lot south of Lantz Gymnasium.

The left front fender and left door were scratched and the upholstery inside the right door was cut, the police report said.

Theft.

• The front license plate, number MATT 487, of sophomore Matthew Love, was stolen between Feb. 22 and Feb. 24 while it was parked in the lot by Buzzard Building.

Right now, EISCCAP and Concerned Citizens are aiming at preventing the dump site from being built in Martinsville.

However, unless Martinsville township votes the dump down, there is no legal way to stop the dump from being built if the proposed site passes the remaining geological and environmental tests.

On Nov. 8, 1988 in a non-binding referendum, the citizens of Clark County, where Martinsville is located, voted down the proposal to build a dump site.

However, a change in legislation, which came after this vote, narrowed the decision of approving the site down to only the township the dump would be in, Keller said.

And Martinsville township voted "yes" on having the dump in their community.

Concerned Citizens is trying to get another referendum and have the township vote "no" on it, Keller said.

EISCCAP supports this "no" vote. "That's the purpose of our going down there," Aldort said.

Clark County has a high unemployment rate and is economically depressed, which may be a reason for local support, Keller said.

The dump site would create jobs and revenue for the community.

The best way to fight tangible things like jobs and money, Keller said, is by making the people of Martinsville aware of the threats.

"We want to explain to them that the jobs and money will go, but the risk will be there forever," Aldort said.

Campus bare on Fridays

By THOMAS STEVENS
Staff writer

Eastern's campus looks like a ghost town on some Friday afternoons when several dozen students pack up and leave Charleston with the sole plan of not returning until late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

Their reasons for leaving are numerous and many times are for emotional needs.

"The major factor is exactly where home is. Some students live less than an hour away, while others live on Chicago's north side which can take more than four hours to get home," said Glenn Williams, vice-president for student affairs.

Many common reasons for students leaving campus are jobs, being homesick, missing boyfriends or girlfriends and even military commitments, such as the National Guard or Reserves.

Most students average going home two or three times in a semester, not including any extended breaks or leaving after the semester is over. But a growing trend in many colleges is the frequent "homebody" or the "suitcases."

There are three main reasons, Williams said, as to why students go home. The first reason is the number of attractions at home. "There are many more distractions to studying, say, in Chicago's suburbs than in one of the rural towns away from Champaign," he said.

Secondly, many students get homesick and need the "emotional lift" that seeing people they're familiar with offers, Williams said.

The final reason students go home is a combination "of a girlfriend or boyfriend, knowing what is interesting to do and where to go, and the emotional lift of going home, give the student incentive to leave," Williams said.

"I have a fiance at home and always have some type of extracurricular activity to accomplish," said senior Terry Pachter, who is getting married in November 1989.

Senior Brian Latka, a resident assistant in Stevenson Tower, said, "Ten out of a total of 47 students on my floor go home every weekend. Mostly to see boyfriends and girlfriends."

Students who have mates back home are prime candidates for frequent travel because the students feel they have to see the boyfriend or girlfriend at every opportunity, Williams said.

"These students probably will not take homework with them," Williams said.

Pachter added, "We have had numerous dinners to attend, so I go home just about every weekend and I am doing fairly well this semester."

Williams said some students are so disciplined that they can go home every weekend and still set aside quality study time despite the numerous distractions of parents and friends. However, some students struggle between the emotional lift of going home and the possible failure of one or more of their classes and eventually lose that battle.

Just as there are students who frequently go home, there are students who will not leave campus during the semester except for spring break and after finals. Williams said this is because the college is a student's change in home and environment, not just a change in address.

Ludwig Jr. to be honored at concert

By CAROLYN GUDITIS
Staff writer

The College of Fine Arts and the music department will host a concert Friday honoring William F. Ludwig Jr. for his achievements as a musician and industrialist.

The free concert is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Dvorak Concert Hall. At the concert, the EIU Super Percussion Ensemble, led by Johnny Lee Lane, will perform one of the first percussion compositions ever written, along with some ragtime and soundtracks from silent movies.

Ludwig, the former president of Ludwig Industries, is internationally recognized as the leading authority in the manufacturing of percussion instruments.

Besides being proficient in music, Ludwig also does some writing. He authored "Modern Dance Drumming," an instructional method book, and he is also given credit for writing many of the Ludwig Drum Company catalogs and brochures.

"Ludwig is a giant, not only in percussion, but in the music industry as well," Lane said. He's done so much for percussion education. That's why we're honoring him."

A reception following the concert will give people the opportunity to meet Ludwig and members of the Super Percussion Ensemble.

Lady Panthers

Eastern's Laura Mull with :03 left gave the Lady Panthers an 80-79 overtime victory.

"When you're talking about a conference race, this is what it's all about," Indiana State coach Andi Myers said of the do-or-die matchup.

The Sycamores are led by senior forward Amy Vanderkolk, who averages 19.9 points per game and nine rebounds a contest.

Vanderkolk scored 26 points against Eastern and sophomore center Julie Lean added 21.

Lady Panthers update:

Although Barb Perkes has hit just four of 21 shots from the field since returning to action from stress fractures in her lower legs, Eastern coach Barbara Hilke discounts the statistic.

"That doesn't concern me," Hilke said. "They (opponents) have to respect her. The defensive pressure put on her helps free up other players, and that is the team concept."

"She's looking to pass, and she's articulated that to a tee."

Meanwhile, senior guard Sheryl Bonsett needs to score nine points Friday to hit 1,000 career points. Bonsett averages 10.2 ppg.

Phoenix at Eastern

Samuels said. "But some of their role players from last year have taken on bigger roles."

Mike Carizny came off the bench to hit three straight three-pointers late in the first half last time to give the Phoenix a 14-point edge that they never relinquished.

"They shot the ball very well against us," Samuels said. "Carizny was really a deciding factor up there."

But the real key for the Phoenix is to stay patient and keep the tempo in their favor — slow.

"It's necessary for us to do that," Bennett said. "We don't rebound well, and we don't contain people well inside."

Samuels says keeping the Phoenix out of their style of play is close to impossible.

"You can't get them out of their game," he said. "They're a team that plays a very deliberate style. They dictate the style of play. Loyola-Marymount couldn't get them out of their style of play."

The Lions, the highest-scoring team in the nation, were held to 85 points by the Phoenix, but escaped with a two-point win.

"We have to maintain our intensity," Samuels said. "It (the slow tempo) is not going to be detrimental if we play hard."

One group that shouldn't have trouble being inspired is Eastern's six seniors, who will play in their final game at Lantz Gym.

"They'll all be anxious to have a good effort," Samuels said.

time around.

"I will probably be seeded third behind those same two guys again this year," Serbick said.

Although his scenario is identical to last year, Serbick said he feels this season he will make the nationals by placing either first or second.

Marlow lost in a bitter way last year at the regional by losing with :10 remaining in the semifinals — placing him fourth. But that was his freshman year and, like most of the Eastern wrestlers, he said he feels he is at his best now.

"I feel I am peaking right now," Marlow said. "I'd really like to win the regional, but I'll mainly concentrate on being one of the final two."

Another wrestler for Eastern that has high expectations for himself this weekend is 126-pound Craig Campbell (12-3). Campbell, who was ranked 17th in the nation before his knee injury this season, said he was disappointed in his third-place finish at the regional last year.

"I've been getting a lot of mat time since the injury, and I feel confident in the way that I am performing now," Campbell said.

Eastern's 150-pound Terry Murphy (17-3-1) said he felt this week of practices prior to the regional was no letdown.

"We had hard practices all week," Murphy said. "Everybody is charged for the meet."

Gateway spot awaits Lady Panthers

By DAVID LINDQUIST
Associate sports editor

All things being equal, Eastern's women's basketball team hosts Indiana State at 7:35 p.m. Friday at Lantz Gym for a ticket to the Gateway Conference post-season tournament.

"Since I've been here, I've been in every Gateway tournament since it originated," Lady Panthers senior Lisa Tyler said after Eastern upset Illinois State 75-67 Wednesday night. "The seniors are fired up more than ever because if we lose we're done."

Tyler's comments tell all when previewing Friday's matchup between the Sycamores and Lady Panthers, who each own 10-7 Gateway marks and a share of fourth place in the league standings.

Indiana State was crushed 73-52 at Southern Wednesday, perhaps giving Eastern the edge in momentum.

"I think we're a little bit stronger team than we were three weeks ago," Eastern coach Barbara Hilke said.

Hilke said she is hoping she can count on a fan-support edge Friday as well.

"Frankly, my biggest concern is challenging Eastern fans to come out," Hilke said. "It's a good plus to be playing this game at Lantz. We could be on the road now."

Hilke also promised a Terre Haute, Ind., contingency to show up on the Sycamores' behalf with "bells on."

In the past, Indiana State has sent a pep band to Lantz and busloads of supporters.

"They're loud, raucous and going for it," Hilke said.

Indiana State was the only team to defeat the Lady Panthers at Lantz Gym during the regular season last year, but Eastern has repaid the favor by beating the Sycamores in Terre Haute in their last two meetings.

Eastern, Phoenix jockey for No. 3 seed Saturday

By JAMES BETZOLD
Sports editor

The conference tournament awaits Monday, but the Panthers have a very important step to climb Saturday when they host Wisconsin-Green Bay at 7:30 p.m. in Lantz Gym.

The winner will be the No. 3 seed in the Association of Mid-Continent Universities tournament at Southwest Missouri State in Springfield, Mo.; the loser falls to No. 4, possibly a tougher route to the championship game.

"You've got to look at one game at a time," Eastern coach Rick Samuels said. "In our case it's going to take three outstanding efforts (in the tournament) whomever we play. Right now Green Bay is the most important because it's the next game we play."

Regardless of who wins the matchup of the two 6-5 teams, Eastern will play either Illinois-Chicago, Valparaiso or Western Illinois depending on the outcome of their games. But the No. 4 team, with a victory Monday, would meet a rested league champion SMSU team, which gets a first-round bye, on its home floor Tuesday.

"In terms of the first round, it doesn't matter because there's so many even teams (at the bottom)," UWGB coach Dick Bennett said. "What you're talking about is staying out of Southwest Missouri's bracket."

"Sometimes playing at home is a factor. But a first-round bye

Panthers update:
Eastern launched a school-record 28 three-pointers Monday night against Cleveland State, but hit only eight. The Panthers remain second in the AMCU in three-point accuracy at 43.9 percent. Gerald Jones leads the AMCU individually at 50 percent. But Jay Taylor, who leads the league in scoring at 23.5, has hit only one of his last 18 attempts from three-point range.
Taylor is 38 points short of former Southwest Missouri State guard Winston Garland's 720-point AMCU single-season scoring record set in 1986-87. Garland now plays for the Golden State Warriors of the NBA.
With two days off from practice Eastern coach Rick Samuels joked that his voice had time to recover from a recent cold because he didn't have any yelling to do.

isn't all it's cracked up to be. I've seen it backfire."

But Saturday's game is still foremost in both coaches' minds.

"I think it's important for us to go into the conference tournament on a winning note," said Samuels, whose Panthers lost 9-83 at Green Bay, Wis., on March 1 with Tony Bennett, the coach's son, scoring 23.

Bennett, a freshman, is fourth in the AMCU in scoring at 19 points per game.

"I think he (Tony Bennett) will be able to make a bigger impact than anybody thought (this year),"

Wrestlers cruise into regional

By JERRY SOLBERG
Staff writer

With an overall season mark of 12-2, anything less than qualifying for the NCAA tournament would be a disappointment for most of Eastern's wrestlers.

The Panthers wrestling team left Wednesday for Des Moines, Iowa, where competition begins Friday and Saturday at the Western Regional.

In addition to their outstanding season record, the experience that many of the Panthers have gained at previous regionals may give an extra edge to this year's squad.

"They know what to expect," said Eastern coach Ralph McCausland. "Most of them have been there before."

Most of Eastern's wrestlers say they have a confident feeling of being able to advance to the NCAA, with some even saying they feel they should win the regional outright.

Bob Johnson (167 pounds) leads an impressive sophomore class, holding the best record on the team this season at 25-8-2.

Johnson said he has a simple goal for the regional.

"I want to win it and make the nationals," Johnson said.

The team's other two sophomores held the next best record for Eastern, with 134-pound Bob Serbick scoring a 23-13-1 record and 142-pound Dave Marlowe recording a 21-11-1 mark.

Serbick took third at the regional last season and the two wrestlers who finished better than him will be present again this

Five members of Eastern's track team, encouraged by a strong showing in the Association of Mid-Continent Universities track meet last weekend, will attempt to take a plunge into the national scene this weekend.

Greg Heggs, Mike Young, Ian Isaacs, Don Glover and Dan Steele will travel with Eastern assistant coach Tom Akers Friday to the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis to compete along with Indiana and the University of Illinois in one last effort to qualify for the NCAA meet to be held in the Hoosier Dome next weekend.

Heggs will compete in the 200-meter dash, Isaacs and Steele in the 400-meter dash and Steele, Isaacs, Glover and Young in the mile relay.

"Heggs had a super meet at conference," Akers said. "I think that he's going to have to run an amazing race to be able to qualify in the 200-meters."

Heggs, who set an AMCU-record 22.01 last Saturday, would need to run 21.37 to make the national meet.

"It takes one of the best races of your life to get there," Heggs said. "But once you get that race, you can always get that race again."

In the 400-meter dash, Steele and Isaacs would need a time of 47.16 to qualify for nationals.

Steele ran with a 48.49 time a week ago.

"I think that Ian is ready to run a very fast time in the quarter (mile)," Akers said. "And Dan ran some real super races this year."

And Akers is confident about the mile relay as well.

"We're going after the school record of 3:13.6," Akers said. "I think that's well within their capabilities."

But he is not so certain about the chances of meeting the 3:10.65 time that would take for them to make nationals.

"The problem is that we have to have four personal best relay splits all at the same time, which is sometimes tough to do," Akers said. "But if any group can do it, I think these four people can."

They would be in the right place to do it, too, as the Hoosier Dome has a reputation of being a fast track.

"If not the fastest, it is one of the fastest tracks in the world," Akers said.

Dear Reader

We all know that we go to college to learn about very practical things like math, English, economics and science. Here we learn a trade that will make us a valued commodity in the job market.

We also know that there are other things going on at college. These other events, though not as practical as academics, are important in other ways. They are important in our social growth.

That is where the University Board comes in to play. It is their job to plan the events that fall under the "fun" category as opposed to the "mundane" category.

There is very much that goes into planning such events. They must weigh the demand for quality acts against limited funds, and they have a whole university to answer to if they mess up.

Last Wednesday the University Board members changed. We thought this would be a perfect opportunity to do a story.

Dvorak to hold expo

BY JILL DAWSON AND
DEBBIE BULLWINKEL

It's that time once again for women of all ages to take part in the fourth annual Women's Expo. This is also the fourth year for Women's Expo coordinator Sandy Rives.

Those attending Women's Expo can register from 6:45 to 8:20 a.m. Saturday in Dvorak Concert Hall. A new addition to this year's Women's Expo is a Teen Expo for young women ages 13-17.

There is a $10 registration for both Women's Expo and Teen Expo, which includes all activities and brunch or lunch.

"Pre-registration is preferred, but walk-ins are welcome," Rives said.

Both expo's welcome all women. "We've had women as old as 90 (participate in Women's Expo)," Rives said.

Many people might wonder how Women's Expo came about. It was Rives' idea in conjunction with the help of University Relations. "I decided to do luncheons of my own with women and it started to build," Rives said. "It (Women's Expo) is an attempt to go into the area to identify their needs and see if Eastern could help in any way."

Rives believed that women needed to be aware of two important aspects. First, women needed a greater source of information. Secondly, they needed something that dealt with the health field.

Women's Expo meets these needs by providing three specific segments: workshops, series of information exhibits that reflect women's interests in various aspects and finally, a style show.

According to Rives, the purpose of Women's Expo is to conduct "comprehensive programs based on women's identified needs and concerns."

Women's Expo has a total of 19 workshops that offers an array of topics for participation and discussion.

Eastern faculty by day-musicians by night. This describes the local bluegrass band, Motherlode which plays Friday nights at The Uptowner and Cellar, 623 Monroe Ave.

The members include Gaye Harrison, fiddler and mandolin player, bass player Althea Pendergast; Becky Phipps, on dulcimer and banjo and guitar player Wendy Meyer.

"The band plays at the (Uptowner and) Cellar every first and third weekend," said Harrison. "We also played in the Arts on the Square in the fall."

Motherlode got together in September because a group on campus needed music for their first meeting. "We called people to play, and the first time we played together it just clicked," Harrison remarked.

The members had lots of choices when they were deciding on a name for the group. "We decided on Motherlode because it seemed to fit. We all have kids, and it really clicked. It really goes well. In the West, the name Motherlode means a big gold vein," said Harrison.

The Motherlode usually plays two 45-minute sets of varied music from old-time fiddle to pop. Motherlode sometimes plays for private parties.

UB

UB brings the best of times to Eastern

Editor's note: On Wednesday the University Board members changed. The new members are chair Melissa Boehm, vice-chair Star Taylor, Mainstage Coordinator Laura Mossimann and Lectures Coordinator Robert Callis. Other coordinator positions will be opening soon.

BY DEBBIE BULLWINKLE
Staff writer

Eastern Illinois University offers more to students besides too much homework. It offers outside activities, such as the University Board, which plans and brings entertainment to campus.

UB is divided into 14 committees: concerts, crazy daze/homecoming, graphics, human potential, lectures, mainstage, movies, performing arts, productions, public relations, special events, subway, summer programming and video tape.

The primary role of each UB committee is to give students an opportunity to gain experience and skills in a particular area.

UB is designed to provide the campus with the highest quality of entertainment and activities at the lowest cost to the students as possible.

Junior English major Janelle Limper was chair of the UB and thoroughly enjoyed her position.

"I was the performing arts coordinator before becoming UB chairman," Limper said. "I took over this position last March and this position runs from March to March. UB is so diverse and it's challenging to lead and to work with because we are all responsible for each other."

UB has such a variety of positions, "so we have someone working in all fields of interest," Limper added.

The UB sponsored 1964, a Beatles impersonation group, who appeared at McAfee gym earlier this semester.

In regards to the way UB is organized, Limper said one has to start at the bottom and work their way up.

"Someone can't just come off the street and become the chairman of University Board," Limper said. "First, someone has to join a committee, which is open to anyone. Then they should go to the committee meetings. We're always anxious for committee members."

The next step would be to become a coordinator, which is a person who runs a particular committee within UB.

"We go through an extensive interviewing process. The person (who is being interviewed) must write a letter stating the reason why they want to be coordinator," Limper said. "It's good to have experience in the position (of interest) plus have interest in working with people and with the campus."

"We look for people who show leadership," Limper added.

When a position on UB is available, Limper said UB makes the position open to the entire campus.

"We (UB) want the campus to know, 'hey, this position is open,'" Limper said.

As a part of being UB chair, Limper has to be "the objective person. I make sure the people (on other committees) are doing what they're supposed to be doing," Limper said. "Since I have to be the objective person, I have no voting power within the University Board."

The chair has to be familiar with every single part of the UB, Limper added.

Being part of UB also means being a volunteer. All positions on UB are unpaid.

"I'm not doing this for money. I'm doing it for the experience," Limper said. "All the experience I've gained (from working on UB) far outweighs monetary value."

In terms of money, all committees on UB receive their revenue from a budget.

"All the money (for the committee) comes from student fees. The concert committee is separate. They get their money from sales and service fees," Limper said.

UB has a pretty sizable number of students who are actively involved in its various committees.

"As a whole, we have between 50 to 75 people on UB," Limper said. "It's pretty good, but it could be better."

The most popular committee on UB is the Concert Committee and the least favorite is the Mainstage Committee.

The "Concert Committee" is popular because people want to work with guests who appear at Eastern as well as with the crew," Limper said.

"The Movie Committee is very popular because the students don't want to take time on Friday nights (which is when they show movies)," Limper said.

"However, a good number of students do come to the movies, so we wouldn't get rid of this committee. We want to serve all parts of campus."

Junior accounting major Kelli Klingel was Limper's sidekick and the UB's vice chair.

"I get to plan retreats, recruit new coordinators, advertise The Daily Eastern News, do secretarial-type of things at meetings and attend all events (UB puts on)," Klingel said. "I touch base with six committees: video, movie, production, mainstage, lectures and summer programming."

Limper is in charge of the remaining six committees. However, Limper and Klingel share the duties of the Concert and Homecoming Committees.

"I try to motivate the other coordinators," Klingel said.

Klingel enjoys working with UB and said her most exciting experiences stem from working with the Concert Committee.

"I think concerts are the most challenging. We (UB as a whole) all pull tight and work together," Klingel said.

"I also have a lot of fun with the Subway Committee—working with the comedians," Klingel added.

experience while UB chair was working the Squeeze concert last spring.

"It was fun, but also disappointing in that the student turnout was poor. We didn't even break even," Limper said.

Diane Ducey, former concert coordinator graduated in December.

"I was in charge of bringing concerts to Eastern," Ducey said. "My two main shows were Parents' Weekend and the Spring Concert (Squeeze)."

In addition to bringing concerts to Eastern, the Concert Committee is also responsible for selecting the entertainers, the day of the show, set-up and ushering.

"The concerts' great responsibility is to have a performer that will appeal to all ages, especially for Parents' Weekend," Ducey said.

"Squeeze was fun because it was a younger, appealing show," Ducey said. "The past two Parents' Weekends were the worst because both shows canceled at the last minute. Cancellations are always a bummer."

Speech communication major Trevor Brown is Concert Coordinator.

"Only three other people applied for the concert coordinator position," Brown said. "I was a concert committee member before I became a coordinator."

Brown said he is pretty excited about being the concert coordinator, but he also feels a little nervous.

"I'm definitely excited about my new position, but I'm also anxious," Brown said. "I want to start right away since it's a new experience for me."

"I was really excited about going in (to the interview)," Brown said. "I was urged to apply by some people on UB."

Brown highly respected Ducey for all the hard work and dedication she put in on the concert committee.

"Diane (Ducey) was quite a concert coordinator," Brown said. "It's going to be a lot of fun, but I do have some pretty big shoes to fill."

Sophomore psychology major

Todd Jones is the productions committee coordinator.

"I really don't have a committee. It's hard to get them (the students) interested because they get easily intimidated by the hi-teck equipment," Jones said.

Jones is basically a one-man band. "I'm doing everything--purchasing new equipment, all repairs to equipment, campus bands--test the sound systems, help with lectures and work with the lighting for some smaller bands," Jones said.

"We're also like an adviser for other committees," Jones added.

Also a part of productions, Jones is also in charge of renting out the equipment, for a specific fee, to other organizations on campus.

Limper stressed the importance of communications regarding the students and UB.

"We want the students' input. We need to know what the students want," Limper said. "We're always open for suggestions and we encourage it."

Another UB sponsored event was the mind reader Ronnie Romm, who amazed students in the Union Grand Ballroom.

Dance-a-thon scheduled to benefit PAL

BY DEBBIE CALRSON
Staff Writer

A dance-athon sponsored by Alpha Sigma Tau and Delta Tau Delta for Project PAL (partners adult literacy) will take place from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. March 6 at E.L. Krackers. "A dance for every decade," is the theme and will feature music from the 50's, 60's, 70's and 80's.

"Every year we (Alpha Sigma Tau) do fundraisers for a philanthropy project," Kim Blanford of Alpha Sigma Tau said. "In the past we have done fundraisers for leukemia and now this year for a local group, PALs from Lakeland College," Blanford said.

The Alpha Sigma Tau members are selling raffle tickets for $2.50 and for $3 at the door. One of the larger prizes is a night stay in the Mattoon Holiday Inn and some spending money. Blandford is not sure how much money the fundraiser will make, but last year Alpha Sigma Tau raised $4,000 for leukemia research and had a "really fun time."

Project PALs, which is based in Mattoon, is a program where volunteers try to raise illiterate adults reading and writing abilities through different programs. PALs classifies an illiterate as someone not being able to read, write or compute above a sixth grade level. "Some of the money from the fundraiser will benefit the Charleston Library, giving materials to it," Tom Jewison, philanthropy chair for Delta Tau Delta said.

Jewison said the fraternity does not have any main sponsor like last year but still will give away door prizes.

There will be a DJ and the band Private Mission will play, and there will be drink specials along with door prizes.

THE QUALITY GOES IN BEFORE THE NAME GOES ON*

Breaking the bonds of boredom

BY ROCHELLE ELLIOTT
Staff writer

Have you ever had to deal with an empty mind? If so, or to prevent having one, here are some ideas and suggestions to fill that void.

#1-Go to class-who knows, maybe you'll find something interesting to further investigate into. Even if you don't, it will occupy some of your time.

#2-Go to the library and read the society pages of The New York Times. Then you'll know who to mingle when you land that prestigious corporate job in the city.

#3-If you're splurging for spring break this year, you may start thinking of ways to pay off the bills for the remainder of the semester and especially those credit card charges.

#4-Memorize all the names of the songs on your tapes, records or compact discs. Never again will you suffer from the "Where have I heard this song before?" syndrome or the "What's this song that I keep humming?" dilemma.

#5-Read over the "Guinness Book of World Records" from the past couple years and find all types of fun facts to fascinate the family and friends with.

#6-Get together with your advisor and discuss what you are going to do with your life. This may also come in handy when you go to plan your classes for next semester.

#7-Start reading at the beginning of a set of encyclopedias and who knows, maybe you'll retain something if you make it to the last volume.

#8-Go to all the residence halls and read the signs that are posted to find out what is going to happen, what is happening and most important of all, what happened that you missed!

#9-Learn how to use the terminal in the library to look up resourceful books and save yourself some time later from looking up things in the card catalog.

#10-DRINK BEER. If you can't stand the thought of occupying those brain cells with knowledge, you may choose to just kill those cells off!

These are just a few of my suggestions for that void, empty feeling that comes into the mind of a every normal college student at least once in four years.

Talented singers show off

BY SHERI OTTO
Staff writer

The Sullivan Singers will have a chance to show off their talents at Mattoon's Cross County Mall Sunday before they defend their crown at the Showstoppers National Invitational Competition held annually in Chicago.

Director Dave Fehr, choreographer Dwight Jordan and 53 students from Sullivan High School make up the Sullivan Singers. Of the 53 students, 40 sing and dance, seven are crew members, and six do both. Anyone at Sullivan High School can become a part of the group. Auditions are held each spring and usually there is an equal representation of all grades.

This year, the group is in its sixth year of competition.

Presently, their honors include: first place at a show choir competition in Mt. Zion, second place in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and on Jan. 14 they were crowned Grand Champions and Best Choreography in Onalaska, Wis.

The Sullivan Singers will be featured at 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday at the Cross County Mall. A variety of songs will be included in their program. Highlights from various musicals, novelty numbers like "The Red Baron," 80's rock songs like "Holding Out for a Hero" and a final patriotic tribute to the "Star Spangled Banner" will be performed.

So if you've got the urge to shop and need an excuse to spend an afternoon at the mall, don't pass up the chance to see the Sullivan Singers perform Sunday.
